AcuCam® Concept™ IV FWT

Superior Gendex image quality for your digital practice

Gendex is proud to present our latest addition to the AcuCam Concept IV intraoral camera product line. The Concept IV FWT system is a break-through design finally able to deliver high-resolution digital video for unsurpassed image quality in digital practices. The new system combines state of the art technology with modern functionality. Miniaturization of the advanced electronics enabled us to reduce the docking station into a compact unit, capable of sitting on a counter and leaving enough room for you to work. Further, the unit can be mounted on a wall or under a counter. For the ultimate in integrated looks, the docking station can be embedded into your existing cabinetry with just the flush mounted faceplate revealed.

A streamlined docking station, removable holster, and efficient software replace the numerous controls of previous models. The intelligent holster knows when you want to work and opens the Gendex camera software on your computer. The holster can be mounted nearly anywhere, putting your handpiece right where you need it.

- Unsurpassed image quality delivered by Firewire technology
- Smart holster automatically activates streaming video and opens video capture software on your computer when you remove the camera
- Designed for simple integration into your operatory, with multiple mounting options

Quality, power and flexibility

For more than a decade we have been designing powerful, reliable cameras that are easy to use and provide the very best image quality. Gendex continues the tradition with cameras designed for ease of use, higher productivity, and superior image quality.

You no longer have to wait – true digital technology has arrived to take your practice to the next level of patient care. Contact your local Gendex dealer for an in office demonstration.
